Lewis Chess-Set

*Replica of a Celtic Chess-Set.
An extraordinary Collector's piece.*

Lewis Chess Set

Figures such as the bishop are typical for chess sets of European origin, such as the Celtic Lewis chess set from the 12th century.

The originals of these Nordic chess figures were found on the Isle of Lewis (Outer Hebrides) in 1831 and are currently in the British Museum in London.

These chess figures, carved from walrus ivory, are attributed to a Scandinavian artist and are regarded as the most magnificent of the European Middle Ages. The reconstruction of the Lewis chess set is an extraordinary collector's piece for every chess fan.

Limited edition of 999 specimens.
